Residents oppose facility

GRANITE CITY — Clients living in a Mental Health Services residential facility at 2440 Grand Ave. should be relocated, some area residents said Tuesday.

More than 30 residents told representatives of Mental Health Services of Southern Illinois Inc. they were concerned about the clients living in their neighborhood after one client, Troy D. Phillips, allegedly robbed Schewe's Corner Confectionery, 2550 Grand, in December.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS said the clients, suffering from emotional illness, need 24-hour supervision.

John Johnson, director of Mental Health Services, said the clients were supervised from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day. He said it wouldn't be possible for them to have 24-hour supervision due to the cost.

Johnson said the clients are placed in the facility because they aren't ready to live by themselves, or because they have no family to stay with. The clients, he said, learn independent living skills and are expected to attend treatment sessions.

Mental Health Services, Johnson said, operates three facilities in Granite City and one in Venice. They serve 30 clients, he said.

Three clients were moved into the house April 1, Johnson said. Ruth Andrews, owner of the house, said Thursday she received little objection about the clients living there after surveying area residents.

When 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk asked residents at the meeting who had been surveyed, one replied, "She said she was told the people being moved into the house were 'down on their luck.'" Fisk said he found two people who had been surveyed.

"I TOOK the lady (Andrews) at her word," Fisk said.

Fisk said he was originally told that three women would be living in the house and was not informed when the other clients were moved in.

Jewel Hill, owner of Schewe's, said the clients have become scapegoats for problems occurring in the area since the robbery of her store Dec. 27. Phillips allegedly placed a knife near the throat of Hill's 16-year-old daughter and demanded money. He is being held in the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Health Services began providing housing in 1978.

Fisk said Phillips had a prior arrest record. Johnson said he checked Phillips' health history, but not his police record, before placing him in the facility.

"I think it's created a fear in that neighborhood," Fisk said. Phillips was relocated to the Grand Avenue facility from a house at 4182 Nameoki Road. Clients were moved out of that house after residents voiced opposition to the facility at a Nov. 5 City Council meeting.

SEVENTH WARD Alderman Jeff Worthen said a meeting with residents near the facility should have been held to educate them about the program before the clients were moved in.

Andrews said the property was rented to Mental Health Services due to their "track record."

"If we had any reason to be apprehensive, we wouldn't have rented to them," Andrews said.

SHE SAID these three family members experienced no problems when they stayed in one apartment of the house for about a year while Mental Health clients lived in another apartment. The lease on the facility will be reviewed in March, Johnson said. He said he was unsure of what Andrews was going to do since the house is for sale.

Warriors' jerseys hot issue

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Fame can be fleeting, especially for high school champions.

That is why some seniors at Granite City High School want to keep their football jerseys. They want to remember their championship season and, most of all, the day they beat the number one high school football team in the country — the East St. Louis Flyers.

But their request to keep the jerseys was denied by the district's administration on Thursday. "WE'VE BEEN talking about this since the end of the season," said John Kabbendjian, a senior, a defensive tackle and a captain of the Warriors '86 team.

Kabbendjian said he and other senior players were told at the end of the season that keeping the jerseys would not be a problem as long as the players paid for them.

But when Kabbendjian tried to buy his No. 72 jersey for $24, a price quoted to him, he said he was told by Principal Ken Spalding and Superintendent Gib Walsley the jerseys would not be sold.

Kabbendjian said he was upset with that decision because the football team raised funds by selling baseball hats to pay for all the varsity jerseys — and the team was one of the most successful football teams in Granite City history.

"We're crying out now and saying those are our jerseys. I thought we deserved better than this," he said.

WALSLEY OFFERED to order identical jerseys for the players, but Kabbendjian said the players wanted the same jerseys worn during the season.

The successful season brought Granite City national attention and helped the school's ticket sales, Kabbendjian said.

"There were more than 7,000 people at that game (with East St. Louis). We drew lots of money," Kabbendjian said.

Shooting Saturday

GRANITE CITY — Police are continuing to investigate a shooting, occurring at 7 a.m. Saturday at 2805 Kirkpatrick Homes, which left one man dead and another seriously wounded, Police Chief Bill Harris said.

Robert Eugene Baxter, 25, of Rural Route Two, Box 706E, was pronounced dead of a gunshot wound at the scene by Madison County Deputy Coroner Randall Irwin at 7:40 a.m. Saturday. An obituary appears on Page 5A in today's issue.

HOWARD GOOCH, 24, of 1415 Niedringhaus Ave., who was at the Kirkpatrick Homes apartment, was wounded and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Newspaper takes District 9 to court

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Preliminary and permanent injunctions are sought by the "Press-Record/Journal" against District 9 officials in a motion filed Friday in Madison County Circuit Court.

In requesting a permanent injunction, the suit alleges the board violated the Illinois Open Meetings Act by holding a closed meeting Dec. 16 to discuss architectural services provided by an independent contractor. After the closed meeting, according to the suit, the board did not take action or discuss what occurred.

The second count in the suit deals with a Jan. 20 meeting in which the board allegedly discussed a "tuition increase" for the Granite City Beauty School in payment for services it provided to the district.

"WE HAVE been extremely careful to not violate the Open Meetings Act," Superintendent Gib Walsley said Friday. "In my opinion, we have not violated the act."

Walsley, named as a defendant in the suit, said the board listened to the advice of its legal counsel before closing the meeting.

PUBLIC NOTICE of the closed meeting was not given in the manner required by law, which also violates the act, it is alleged in the suit.

"The acts of the School Board and the Superintendent constitute a violation of plaintiffs' rights guaranteed by the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution..." (and interfere with plaintiffs' rights to obtain and report on the meetings of a public body..." the suit alleges.

THE COURT is asked in the suit to permanently stop the board from discussing professional services or the performances of independent contractors in closed meetings, to not take final action in a closed meeting, to close meetings as the law requires and to pay attorneys' fees.

If the preliminary injunction is granted, the newspaper's education reporter, Dave Gosnell, would be allowed to hear what the suit alleges should be public discussions involving private contractors. He could hear such discussions at least until the court rules on the permanent injunction.

SIX MEMBERS of the board are named in a separate action by a fellow board member, David Partney, who alleges they violated the Open Meetings Act by discussing general job descriptions in a closed meeting March 25. Nick Byron, Madison County associate judge, heard testimony Wednesday and is expected to rule in two months.

The newspaper's suit is the first during its 35-year history taken against a public body.

"We take this action with deep regret and only because we believe it must be done to protect the public's right to open government," Publisher Rick Jarvis said Friday. Each member of the seven-member board, and Walsley, are defendants. Plaintiffs are Gosnell and the newspaper's parent company, East Side Publications.

He writes kids books

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — "I do the words," he said, unfolding the book illustrating his works.

Eugene Baker is an author. His readers are children.

Baker spoke to aspiring writers in Granite City elementary schools on Friday.

AT PRATHER School, Baker was telling a story but not from one of his 54 books for children. He gave Young Authors at the Prather Learning Center his account of what to do to be a writer.

"When you first write, don't worry about spelling. Make sure you get down your ideas," Baker said, urging the fourth, fifth and sixth graders not to worry about what their prose would look like.

Baker held up a ragged piece of yellow paper with scribbles on it. It was his raw copy of a work that was eventually published.

He told the students to accept criticism of their writings. He called editors at his publishing house his "teachers."

"These teachers live with felt pens," he said.

SOME WRITERS may ask, "What is this person doing to my work?" said Baker. He answered to the students, "Are they going to make it better? You bet."

Baker is vice president of Laidlaw Publishing Co. He lives in Arlington Heights.

Some of Baker's books are based on his past experiences as a principal at a junior high school.

Some of his books are available in District 9 school libraries and in the Granite City Public Library, including the popular series I want to be...

The series contains about 30 books explaining different professions and interests, such as what it's like to be a fireman, a nurse or a teacher.

BAKER SHOWED the students what books look like before they are printed and how the illustrations match the story.

Sunday focus

He asked the students what they wanted to know about the writing profession.

The inevitable question arose — "How did you get started?"

"You know how teachers have that big fat book with all the answers in it? That's how I got started," he said. Baker wrote answers for the publishers of the book.

PRESSED FURTHER by a student, Baker was asked if he wrote when he was a student.

"I would write lots of letters... and postcards. I knew I wanted to be a minister or a writer," he said.

Asked by a student if he felt rejected when a publisher turns down a book idea, Baker told the students not to be discouraged about having their writings rejected. He said one of his books was rejected for eight years before it was published. It was a book on manners.

The idea for the manners book came from his days as a principal, especially the time he spent in the school's cafeteria.

"FOR A LONG time, nobody liked the book. Don't worry if they don't like your story. I'm a super person and so are you," he said.

"Keep in mind, when you get published, you get money and that's nice," Baker said. He added, though, that it is difficult to make a living solely through writing books.

"It's not my fulltime job. I don't make enough money just writing books," Baker said, responding to a student's question about money in the writing profession.

Children's books are normally written in a standard format, containing about 32 pages with 600 words and large, colorful illustrations.

HIS FIRST book A Bicycle for Linda was named after his daughter, Linda.

"She's a teacher now," Baker said.

He said he concentrates on writing children's books, though he wrote one book for adults, about the Olympics.

"Nobody has ever read it. It's a 'coffee table book.' I write only for children. It's a lot of fun," he said.

In union, the class repeated Baker's saying:

"Promise
"To
"Keep
"Writing."

AUTOGRAPH SEEKERS crowd around famous children's author Eugene Baker Friday morning in the Prather Elementary School learning center. Baker explained the steps in writing and publishing books to fourth, fifth and sixth graders involved in writing their own books.

Don't take the shirts from off their backs

The Granite City Warriors football team stunned the high school football world by defeating the reigning national champions.

When the East St. Louis Flyers played in Granite City, some would have bet a week's pay that the Warriors would lose by at least two touchdowns. Everyone in the area interested in high school sports was at the game and those who weren't were intensely interested — the newspaper's police scanner buzzed with near play-by-play accounts.

After the game, the newspaper's phones were kept ringing by people who just had to hear from an authoritative source what they'd heard elsewhere — the mighty Flyers had fallen to Granite City.

The Warriors will be remembered for years to come for what they accomplished on Oct. 4, 1986, and accolades for the team included a Southwestern Conference title.

Different school districts place different values on what their teams accomplish. The outstanding 1986 Flyers, for example, were honored with a banquet specifically for the team that included a $50 bill and a jacket for one parent of each player.

In Granite City, some members of the Warriors requested that they be able to keep their jerseys as a memento of a storied season. Their request was denied — other teams might want to do the same, they were told.

The football team members have made a reasonable request. They help raise the money to purchase the jerseys and it's hard to accept that a little adjustment can't be made to grant their request. Some members would pay for the jerseys. The district plans to purchase new jerseys for the 1987 season anyway, so why not buy them earlier — for 1987?

The district could then give away the old jerseys.

We hope the school district hasn't jumped into a foxhole to defend its position. It would win, but there would be losses to count.

Says permit proposal violates public's rights

To the editor:

Thank you, City Council, for making the wise decision to rethink your actions on the proposed occupancy permits.

The federal Constitution of the United States of America is set up, by and for the people so all citizens of this great nation can voice their opinion on regulations made by the governing bodies.

Due course of law should not give city officials the right to trample on the rights of the governed.

It is one thing for a governing body to propose an ordinance, but another thing when the majority of the governed body does not agree with the proposed ordinance, and has not been asked for input before the council decides to vote on the proposal in law.

An injustice has been wrought here. The governed should be asked if they approve of the ordinance before it becomes law.

This notion operates under the principle of a democracy — not a totalitarian authority. Is this perfectly clear to the Granite City Council?

They are not dictators; they are public servants — to serve the public and not rule arbitrarily over them. I believe that all public servants should be re-educated in the principles of a democratic society and especially of the federal Constitution.

Wellness a key part of local lifestyle

"Add life to your lifestyle."

"Wellness is for everyone."

That kind of positive approach applies not only to the patients of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, but to the institution itself.

Now a major player in providing health services in the bi-state metropolitan area, SEMC has had to keep re-inventing itself to remain viable in an era of rapid change.

It's no longer a matter of just treating sick people, but of helping everyone to be well, with a higher quality of life.

This topic comes to mind because of an open house set for 1 to 3 p.m. today, Feb. 1, at SEMC's Wellness Center, located next to the hospital in the strikingly modernized former McKinley School building, 22nd and Iowa streets.

The public will be welcomed for a tour of the Wellness Center. Staff members will be there to explain the programs that are offered. Blood pressure and pulmonary function will be tested and heart rate will be recorded for those who are willing.

Wellness is defined as "being and feeling one's best physically, emotionally, socially, spiritually and intellectually, regardless of age or physical limitations."

In a nutshell, when a person feels good and looks good, he or she usually gets more enjoyment out of life. And maintaining good health is much less expensive to individuals and employers than paying for the treatment and rehabilitation that accompany serious illness.

The Wellness Center is only one of many examples of how St. Elizabeth has matured and evolved since 1911. In line with its intent to offer a full range of specialized services, it has expanded into almost an infinite number of services and programs.

Columnists' Club

By Bill Winter

Invitations to today's open house, from Sister Mary Thomas, board chairman, and Ted Ehlert, president, describe the medical center as a "469-bed licensed acute-care facility which includes a 50-bed adult and adolescent psychiatric building, a 20-bed chemical dependency unit and a new oncology department."

An alphabetical list of its classes, clubs and clinics includes:

Alcoholics Anonymous, Aflano, Alzheimer's Support Group, American Association of Critical Care Nurses, Anorexia/Bulimia, Baby-sitting Clinic, Better Breathers, Cancer Conference, Chemical Dependency Education, Children's Clinic, Cooking a la Heart, Coronary Club, CPR, Infant CPR and CPR Instructor Classes, Diabetes Classes and Support Group, Dream Factory, Edgewood-Edwardsville Chemical Dependency Department.

Emotions Anonymous, Epilepsy, Exercise for Everyone, Family Education, Fresh Start, Grief Support, Home Health At-Home Professionals, Hospice, Immunization Clinic, Lifeline, Mastectomy Club, Ministers Meeting, Mobile Meals.

Nutrition - Over Eaters Anonymous, Parenting Classes, Physical Fitness, PMS Syndrome Clinic, Prenatal Classes, Pulmonary Support Group, Respiratory Therapy, Seizure Clinic, Sibling Classes, Sitters List, Slimmatics, Socially Transmitted Clinic, Stress Management, TB Clinic, Tough Love, and Weight Control Classes.

I won't attempt to explain them in this column, but each is of major significance to a portion of Quad-Cities, other Metro East residents and Missourians.

Once primarily serving Granite City, Madison and Venice, SEMC now has regional impact and has just been honored for its development of services based in Edwardsville. It also has had links to the University Heights area and St. Louis County.

There is a high charity and public aid patient load. With only about 56 cents being received for each dollar of services rendered to public aid patients, cost control requires strong emphasis.

Hospitals throughout Illinois are suffering and are studying how to be more effective in their lobbying at Springfield and Washington.

Illinois' state government spends more than $1.5 billion a year in purchasing health care on behalf of Medicaid and General Assistance recipients, but the money isn't going far enough.

In calling for health care delivery cost discussions this winter between the state, Cook County and the University of Illinois, Gov. James R. Thompson noted that the health care system is under intense pressure. He said, "Purchasers are becoming increasingly conscious of costs and are reducing the demand for inpatient hospital care." The governor stressed the challenge of keeping services both affordable and of high quality.

One of the hospitals in Madison County, St. Joseph's of Alton, was bought in January 1987 by American Healthcare, a for-profit company. Most St. Louis area hospitals, including SEMC, are non-profit.

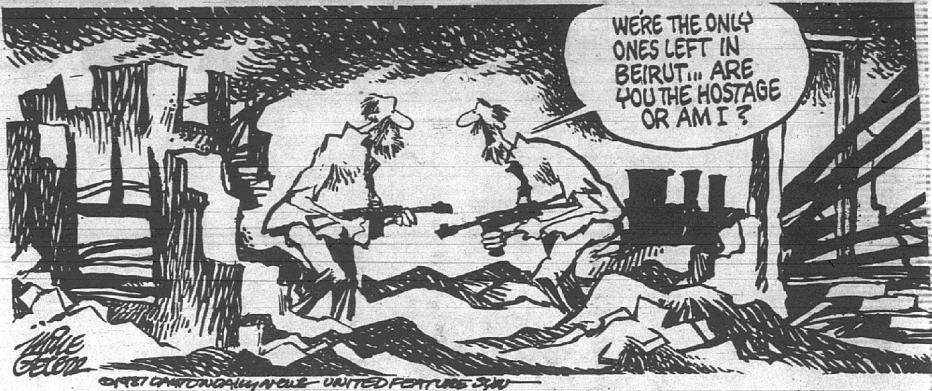

For the third straight year, the proposed new federal budget has targeted Medicare, the health insurance program for the elderly, for the largest spending cuts in the U.S. budget.

Although these financial concerns need to be dealt with before a wave of predicted hospital closings begins to occur nationwide, there is much to be upbeat about.

A skilled and increasingly diverse medical staff has been recruited, and the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals continues to be highly pleased with the caliber of services at SEMC. Many contracts have been signed with preferred provider and health maintenance organizations.

During 1986, a 30-bed skilled-care nursing unit was established and the possibility of building a nursing home was discussed. Laser eye surgery began here, and renal dialysis is about to start.

A big advance will be the launching of MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) at St. Elizabeth during 1987. MRI is likely to provide breakthroughs in understanding a patient's precise needs and eliminating less gentle health tests.

Business growth bolsters Madison

Recounting the events and accomplishments of the past year in order to better prepare for the future is something we all do as individuals, as families and as a community.

The year 1986 was a good year for the City of Madison; we accomplished much. Surely, Madison is still the "right place" and this is the "right time."

The city administration, council and others working with the business community and civic leadership successfully undertook many activities which benefit the citizens of our community.

Examples of the many noteworthy accomplishments are the following:

- Business licenses increased by 17 during 1986, from 164 to 177. The Madison Business Association, along with the city, has played a leading role in the continued development of a healthy business environment.

- To serve existing business and to provide an essential ingredient for future growth, the city acquired a $265,000 low-interest loan from the state to construct a water line to the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza and to serve the newly annexed land south of the city.

- Acquisition of properties on 4th Street and Madison Avenue was completed. The completion of property acquisition will permit more effective marketing, promotion and utilization of Madison Avenue.

- Fox Industries Inc. purchased the IPC building and business on Market Street and will continue to operate it as a nationwide trucking company.

- Lanter Distributing Company purchased Interstate United and also acquired property on Collinsville Avenue and is now constructing a $1,500,000 facility.

- City personnel health insurance costs have been reduced by $20,000 per year.

- A new agreement executed between the city and police department will help insure the longevity of police personnel with the city.

- A new electrical signal agreement between the city and the Illinois Department of Transportation for new signals on 3rd, 6th and 12th streets was instituted.

- The Burglar Alarm Department is now operating profitably.

- The City is installing a lift pump to permit expanded utilization of the Maers Industrial Park.

- A garbage truck purchased in 1985 has been modified to permit its access in city alleys.

- These examples of 1986 accomplishments are indicative of the many efforts being made by the city

Our two Senior Citizens organizations are a blessing to our community, as is our School Board, which is working hard to give our children a quality education.

Our future is bright, but realizing our full potential will require that we all work unselfishly together during 1987 to provide the high quality of life we all desire.

We welcome all ideas and suggestions on how Madison will always remain "The right time — the right place."

The city administration and council express sincere appreciation to the Madison Business Association, all community organizations and all individuals who worked hard for the betterment of the City of Madison during 1986 and we wish everyone a prosperous 1987.

Give President line-item veto

To the editor:

As we begin the 100th meeting of Congress, one of the most serious problems that faces our nation is the continuing federal budget deficit and the effect it has on our economy and our future.

Although we are making determined efforts to narrow the revenue-spending gap, the enormity of the problem has made it increasingly necessary to look to creative solutions to the problem.

One of the tools I believe would bring us closer to the goal of a balanced budget is line-item and reduction veto power for the president.

Under our Constitution, a president can veto only an entire bill. He or she cannot veto individual items of spending within the bill; the veto is an all-or-nothing proposition.

Increasingly, a president has the choice of either shutting down the government, or signing into law billions of dollars of spending which he or she does not support. More and more, Congress attaches controversial items to "must" bills in an effort to make it more difficult for a president to use his veto power.

Log-rolling and packaging good and bad programs into a single omnibus bill have become a way of life.

Because I'm convinced of the usefulness of a line-item veto, I introduced legislation on the first day of the 100th Congress proposing a Constitutional amendment authorizing ing the president to disapprove or reduce individual items of appropriations.

This line-item veto or reduction power would be subject to a majority override of both houses of Congress rather than the two-thirds majority it takes to override a bill.

I also introduced legislation to give the president similar authority by statute because a Constitutional amendment will take a substantial amount of time, and we need the benefits of an item veto now.

I did not introduce these measures lightly. I am convinced we need fundamental changes in our budgeting procedures if we are ever going to restore fiscal discipline to the federal government.

The item veto, in fact, has a long and distinguished history. It first appeared in the Confederate Constitution.

In the years since the Civil War it has been included in the constitutions of 43 out of the 50 states, including Illinois.

The states gave their governors this authority because it was needed, because it strengthened their budget process, and because it works.

While numerous item veto proposals have been introduced since the first one in 1878, the idea has never seriously been considered at the federal level.

Radio Watch targets crimes, emergencies

GRANITE CITY — Illinois-American Water Co. this week announced a program to use radio-equipped water company vehicles to report crimes, fires, accidents, and other public emergencies to local police and fire departments.

Thomas M. Conner, Illinois-American vice president and manager, said the new program, called "Radio Watch," will be carried out throughout the company's service territory, which includes Granite City, Madison, Venice, the Village of Pontoon Beach and Nameoki Township.

The program is part of a nationwide effort by the National Association of Water Companies (NAWC), which represents investor-owned water utilities throughout the United States.

CONNER SAID the Illinois-American program reflects the company's concern for the quality of life in the communities it serves and for the well-being of the residents.

"As a water supplier, we have been in the business of public service since 1875," he said.

"Our adoption of the Radio Watch program represents a logical extension of that service."

OPERATORS of the company's 11 radio-equipped vehicles will report to the company radio dispatcher any incidents that appear to require the attention of public safety officials, who will be notified promptly by the radio dispatcher.

Reportable incidents include crimes in progress, suspicious activity, fires, highway and other accidents, and emergencies.

Conner said it is hoped the Radio Watch will help police, fire, and other public safety agencies achieve "their public safety missions" by providing many more eyes and ears on the alert for situations in which someone needs their assistance."

WATER COMPANY employees have been instructed not to attempt to interfere in the emergency situation but rather to leave that role to the properly-trained public safety personnel.

Illinois-American vehicles that will participate in the program travel through the company's service territory in the course of carrying out water supply responsibilities, and last year logged 142,300 miles of travel.

"The 24-hour-a-day nature of our public water supply commitment," Conner said, "will enhance the effectiveness of this program."

THE VEHICLES will be marked with distinctive, reflective "Radio Watch" stickers.

The stickers are intended to alert the public that they are radio-equipped and may provide a vital link to needed assistance.

"It is hoped that the program, in addition to its communications function, will serve as a deterrent to criminal activity," he said.

THE NAWC PLAN in which Illinois-American is participating is modeled after a similar program initiated in parts of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia by Delmarva Power & Light Co., which reports conveying useful information to public safety agencies on 300 occasions during the first year.

"Illinois-American hopes, through Radio Watch, to make a positive contribution to the safety and well-being of our fellow citizens," Conner said.

2 lock-dam workers hurt when wall falls

Two construction workers were injured Jan. 22 at the new Lock and Dam 26 project when wind caught a steel reinforcement wall and it collapsed on the workers.

"They were setting a wall in place and, while they were setting it, the wind caught it and it fell," said Larry Billingslea, assistant project manager for construction of a replacement lock and dam. Belinda Gibson, 28, Alton, and Brett Rayburn, 28, Belleville, were transported to St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton at about 9:15 a.m. after being treated by Alton rescue paramedics at the scene.

Gibson, Rayburn and one other worker were trying to raise the wall in icy winds when the steel wall and reinforcing rods buckled and collapsed, said Ron Viehwig, chief of engineering of the project.

The workers were constructing a "concrete form," two steel walls with steel reinforcing rods into which concrete is poured to form a reinforcing wall, a site spokesman said.

Viehwig said one worker jumped free, another was trapped and suffered a leg injury and the third suffered minor injuries.

A spokesman for St. Joseph's said the two workers were not seriously injured.

Sven Nylan, project manager, said one of the workers apparently suffered a broken leg.

Officials at Grove Lock 26 Constructors, general contractor on the site, said they knew nothing of the accident, although Viehwig said the injured workers are employees of that firm.

Site workers were immediately back on the job after Alton fire department and ambulance personnel left the dam site, located in the Mississippi River north of Granite City.

"We've got a worker here who broke his leg and I've got helicopters flying around from downtown (St. Louis) saying the whole cofferdam collapsed," Nylan complained of newsmen's response.

ASK A CHIROPRACTOR

Q. I recently went to a chiropractor for what I thought was a strained back and he wanted me to have laboratory tests. Are these tests really necessary?

A. In most instances yes. In order to properly diagnose a person's condition it is necessary to eliminate other possible problems. Several interrelated conditions may present on a back pain as the only symptom. The following case history may encourage you to follow through on your doctor's request.

Recently, a middle aged woman presented complaining of low back pain. She stated it had been bothering her for around two weeks and couldn't trace the onset to any particular incident. Orthopedic, neurological and X-ray studies failed to show any clear cut cause for her problem. She was then sent for routine blood work and urinalysis which showed she was suffering from a kidney infection. The patient was referred to her general practitioner for prompt treatment and her back pain resolved. Not all back pain is the result of internal problems, but through the use of laboratory studies these cases are often identified.

Jerseys

Kabbendjian expects the players and other students at the high school to support him in his efforts to keep the jerseys.

A PETITION may be passed around the high school and presented to the District 9 Board of Education, he said, adding, "We are going to go as far as it takes." The next board meeting is Tuesday, Feb. 3.

Walmesley said he agreed with Spalding's decision to deny the jerseys for several reasons.

If the district replaced red and black jerseys bought by seniors, new ones would contrast with the old ones, which have been heavily laundered, Walmesley said.

The district would probably have to order a new set of jerseys next year if part of the uniforms were taken, Walmesley said.

He also said giving the football seniors the jerseys would encourage players from other successful teams to want their jerseys.

"If you extend the privilege... you would have to extend that to all athletes," Walmesley said. He said it would be costly to the district if the practice became a habit.

Of the football team and the petition drive, Walmesley said, "They did have a great year. They have very strong feelings toward the football team. I am sure whatever they do would be honorable and sincere."

A memo has been sent to school board members on the issue, said Walmesley.

IF THE BOARD decided to let the seniors keep the jerseys, Walmesley said, he would recommend the district give all the seniors their jerseys at no charge.

Charging for the jerseys would not be fair to players who could not afford to purchase them, he said.

One out of ten women will develop breast cancer.

Perhaps the two most frightening words to a woman are breast cancer. The number one killer of females, breast cancer is a disease caused by uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells in the breast tissue. But with detection, effective treatment can be started immediately, therefore improving the patient's prognosis. The survival rate among women who find cancer before it is noticeable is 97 percent.

To answer the need for early detection of breast disease, St. Elizabeth Medical Center has established the Breast Diagnostic Program, which provides mammographies at almost half the cost of such procedures being done elsewhere. A convenient diagnostic procedure, a mammogram provides patients with high quality, high sensitivity images with minimal radiation exposure. (Physician referral is necessary)

Following the guidelines by the American Cancer Society, this simple, painless exam is currently the best method of detecting breast disease. The ACS recommends all women age 35 to 40 have an initial, routine mammogram; diagnostic exams periodically between age 40 and 50; and yearly exams after age 50.

How many will detect it in time?

If you're a woman age 35 or older and would like more information, call SEMC's Breast Diagnostic Program at 798-3181

School enrolments in 25-year decline

Illinois public elementary and secondary school enrollment declined 18.9 percent in the last decade and projections show another 5.3 percent decline by the year 2000, State Comptroller Roland W. Burris has reported.

Public school enrollment during the 1985-86 school year was 1.8 million pupils, down 419,000 from the 2,222 million enrolled during the 1976-77 school year. Burris said the decline is expected to continue until the turn of the century, when enrollment is expected to be 1.7 million.

Although private schools have also experienced enrollment declines in the last 10 years, they have not been as great. Burris said private school enrollment in Illinois dropped from 363,400 in 1976-77 to 329,200 in 1985-86, a decrease of 9.4 percent.

Private schools' share of total enrollment has increased in the last decade from 14.1 to 15.5 percent.

The number of public school teachers in Illinois has also declined, although not as drastically. Burris said an increase in the number of special education teachers has kept the decline in the teachers' roster to 7.3 percent since 1976-77.

A decade ago, Illinois employed 110,300 teachers; now the number has dropped by 8,000.

The student-to-teacher ratio has improved from 20.1 in 1976-77 to 17.6 10 years later.

In the 1985-86 school year, 41 percent of school receipts came from state sources. A decade earlier, the state provided 46.9 percent of school revenues.

Burris said recent trends show the state may again be bearing a greater share of elementary and secondary school funding. For the current school year, the state will provide 42.3 percent, compared to the low of 38.1 percent in 1982-83.

While local taxing districts provide the largest share of education funding, three geographic regions vary greatly in the percentage of local contributions.

In Chicago, local tax revenues account for 38.7 percent of education funding, the state accounts for 36.7 percent and the federal government for 12.1 percent. State categorical aid and other revenues account for the rest.

Meanwhile, Chicago suburban local governments provide 65 percent in local taxes, 14.3 percent is general state aid and 4.5 percent is federal aid. Downstate, local governments account for 42.9 percent, general state aid for 25 percent and 4.4 percent is federal aid.

Twenty-five percent of the state sales tax goes to the state's Common School Fund, the largest revenue source for the fund. Revenues from sales taxes increased 78.4 percent in the last decade — from $584 million in 1976-77 to $1,030 million in 1985-86. A portion of the increase came from the sales tax increase from 4 to 5 percent in 1981.

More recently, the Common School Fund became the beneficiary of state lottery revenues ($465 million in fiscal 1986) and the revenues from the tax amnesty program in fiscal 1985 and '86.

Devils win 15th in a row

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer
VENICE — It wasn't your typical Red Devil runaway, but it will do.

Venice played well in spurts — and not so well in other spurts — in carving out a 76-63 win over the Metro East Lutheran Knights Friday night in an Illini-Gateway Conference game.

The Devils won the game without the services of two starters and a third — Wilfred Wigfall — playing on a taped-up ankle. Wigfall played through the pain to collect a game-high 22 points.

With Jesse Hall and Daryl Jackson on the bench in street clothes recovering from injuries, Venice won its 15th consecutive game. They were 16-1 (4-0 in the conference) heading into Saturday's game with Flora (17-2) in the Superfan Spectacular at SIUE's Vandalia Center Saturday afternoon. The Wolves are the No. 7 Class A team in Illinois, while Venice is still No. 2.

As a result of the injuries, Venice coach Clinton Harris was forced to substitute more than he is used to, and the result was some uneven play.

"I don't like to make excuses, but we were playing without some starters," Harris said. "We wanted the others to get used to playing. Our offense was like a roller coaster. We were getting confused at times, but we played pretty good at other times."

The Knights (5-11, 2-3 in the Illini-Gateway Conference) were able to stick fairly close to Venice through much of the game, but fell out of the game late in the third quarter, when an 11-point deficit quickly became 21 points.

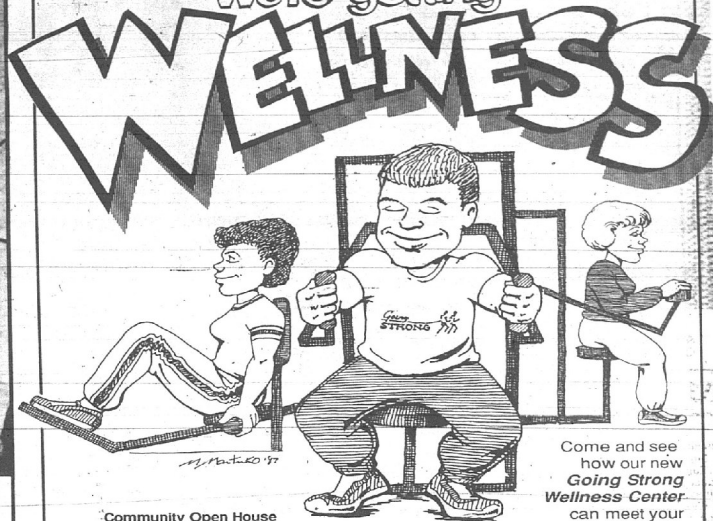

"That was a terrible turning point in the game," said Knights coach Ed Sievers. "We had the wrong fellows with the ball a lot of times. But a lot of the credit goes to Venice. They can turn it on and off. We did some bad things, but they just turned it on when they needed to."

It looked for a while like the Devils might miss their injured players when the Knights roared out to an 8-2 lead. But Venice scored 12 of the next 14 points, and Wigfall's jumper gave them a 20-16 lead after one quarter.

● Devils

Wigfall and Vincent Harris (18 points) each had four points early in the second quarter to build a 12-point lead, and the Devils kept their lead at a comfortable margin the rest of the night.

"We made a few too many silly mistakes against them," Sievers said. "We think they are a really fine team without Hall. They're probably not as physical, but they're still very good."

James Treadway got his first varsity start for Venice and responded with 11 first-half points as the Devils took a 42-26 lead to the locker room at halftime. And Darryl Buie, who got his first start in the fight-shortened game at Lovejoy last week, rebounded well and scored six points.

"Buie got some rebounds, but he was rushing things on offense," Harris said of his new center. "But it was his first game. He'll come along."

Venice still counted on old reliables Wigfall, Harris and Dale Turner (15 points, three assists). "I knew I had to do more than I had been doing," Wigfall said of his role as a scorer without Hall in the lineup.

"The bulk of the offense had to come from Wigfall," Harris said. "He was playing with his ankle taped, but he shot the ball real good."

Consecutive baskets by Loyl Dozier (17 points), Todd Dabbe (23
